SEWING MACHINE.

Having received the agency of this celebrated Sewing Machine, I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends, and all those who want a first-class machine. Its particular advantages I will not here attempt to enumerate, as it is known to be one of the most popular Machines now in use.

While it is equal to any for heavy manufacturing purposes, it is superior to all others for fine work—such as Shirt Blouses, Ladies wear, &c. &c.

It has the advantage over the double lock stitch on account of its great saving of thread—making a neat stitch, and one that will not unravel.

These machines will be kept by me for sale, and difficult teeth extracted with or without Chloroform. Can be consulted at his office at any time except on Mondays and Tuesdays.

Office in Pershing's block, up stairs, corner of Michigan and Gano streets. n-29tf

THE UNION.
BY MRS. L. H. SUGGARTY.

Ho! Eagle of our banded States,
With drop thine olive fair,
And bid the shaft of war and woe
Speed bursting through the air!

And the soaring eagle answered,
Waving his peace branch high,
"No! Freedom's chieftain gave the trust—
I'll guard it till I die!"

Ye stars, that shine in sparkling blue,
Upon your banner'd field,
Shall be stricken from your place,
And half in clouds concealed!

But silent were those glorious orbs,
With dread amazement fraught;
Each trembling in its crystal sphere
At the dark traitor thought.

Oh, human hearts to concord train'd
By sire who stood of yore,
As brothers around their homes
The Lion roused in gore.

Will ye the heritage they won
With ruthless hand divide?
Or rend the Gordian knot that drew
Around you when they died?

Then, from the Pater Patriae's tomb
Beneath Mount Vernon's shade—
And from the hero's bed, who sleeps
In Nashville's beautiful glade—
And from green Quaker's honored breast,
Where shines and sun repose—
"BARK NOT THAT BIRD!" a solemn voice
In deep accordance rose.

Hark! Hark! o'er forest ro'd in snow,
In many, flower-crowned vale,
From where the Atlantic's thunder-tone
The far Pacific hails;
From mart and dell, where millions dwell
By prairie, lake and hill,
Rolls on the full, sublime response—
"WE NEVER, NEVER WILL!"

The Secret of Success.

Jonas Slack and his wife commenced house-keeping, as many other young people do, with little means for defraying the necessary expenses; but as he was a good mechanic, and could generally find employment in his native village, and she being an industrious little woman, besides doing her household work, earned considerable in the course of a year, by doing plain sewing. But still they did not seem to prosper as did Ned Bowen and his wife.

But still they did not seem to prosper as did Ned Bowen and his wife.

"Ned Bowen signed five dollars."
"I don't see how he can afford it," I replied, "as he does not get any better wages, or work more hours than I do."

A few days after the foregoing event, on an invitation from Ned Bowen and his wife, we spent an evening at their house, which we found much better furnished than our own, though there was no apparent attempt to make any needless display of furniture.

The evening passed pleasantly away, but I could not avoid some unpleasant feelings, whenever I contrasted their home with our own.

"I wonder," said I to my wife, on our way home, "if Bowen does not go in debt for some of their furniture?"

"He does not," she replied, "for his wife told me that they did not owe a dollar in the world."

"But how can they live as they are doing on his wages, if he gives five dollars at a time for charitable purposes?"

"I think I can tell you," said my wife in a hesitating manner.

"Well, do you please," I replied, not a little curious to know what her ideas on the subject were.

"Well," she continued, "in the first place she never buys for herself any unnecessary things, and takes good care that nothing is lost or destroyed that comes into the house."

"In the second place," said she, "he is as careful in these respects as she is. He buys no ice cream, oranges, cigars, &c., neither for himself or any of his pretended friends. In short my dear Mr. Slack, he has no hole in his pocket."

It was the first word of suspicion my wife ever uttered on the subject, and the fact, together with the conviction that she had clearly seen and so unexpectedly, but in so kind a manner, told me the real cause of the difference between our home and that of Ned Bowen and his wife, cut me to the quick—or rather, I should have said it sewed me up and my pocket too; they have never had holes in since that evening.

Her change has always been safe in them ever since, and our home now will not suffer in any comparison with that of our friends the Bowens. With good books and papers I can spend my leisure hours more pleasantly and profitably at home than anywhere else; and the saving of small expenses more than pays for them, and is the secret of success.

An interesting scrap of history.—There have been too specific attempts to do away the authority of the Federal Government since its formation.

The first was in 1782, and was conspired of some of the officers of the Government to consolidate the thirteen States into one and confer the supreme power on Washington.

The second was in 1787, called "Shay's insurrection," in Massachusetts.

The third was in 1794, popularly called "the whiskey insurrection," in Pennsylvania.

The fourth insurrection was in 1814, by the Hartford Convention Federalists.

The fifth, on which occasion the different sections of the Union came into collision; was in 1820, under the administration of President Monroe, and occurred on the question of the admission of Missouri into the Union.

The sixth was a collision between the Legislature of Georgia and the Federal Government in regard to certain lands given by the latter to the Creek Indians.

The seventh was in 1820 with the Cherokee in Georgia.

The eighth was the memorable nullification ordinance of South Carolina in 1822.

The ninth was in 1842, and occurred in Rhode Island between the "Suffrage Association," and the State authorities.

The tenth was in 1856, on the part of the Mormons, who resisted the Federal authority.

MARRIAGE.—Young man don't be in a hurry about getting married. And what is more, never content yourself with having a common place wife. You want one to stir you up, to keep you moving—to make something of you. Don't fear you can't get such a one. I remember a reply that a friend of mine made to a young man who expressed a fear that a certain young lady of great beauty and attainments, would dismiss him if he became serious.

"My friend," said he, "infinitely more beautiful women than she is, have married infinitely meaner men than you are." If you are honest and honorable, if you are industrious and the master of your business; if you are independent and can stand before a woman with respect for yourself and fearlessness of her; you can marry almost any body that is worth having.

So don't be in a hurry; don't give yourself entirely up to calling and compliments.—Remember that here as well as elsewhere, "distance lends enchantment to the view." Rather first master your business—take a position in society—and make "all of the man out of yourself that the material will admit of," and my word for it, the marrying part will come all right at the end.—Timothy Titcomb.

PRESIDENT FELTON ON STEEL PENS.—At the examination of the Framingham Normal School, yesterday, President Felton and others made addresses. The President proved to be "sound on the goose" by a historical and philosophical defence of that much abused animal, and by a special eulogy of the goose quill. He spoke in strong terms of the serious effects of steel pens, their tendency to injure or paralyze the nerves of the arm. And proof of this influence had come under his own knowledge. His predecessor, Dr. Walker, at least six of his acquaintances, had received permanent injury from the habitual use of steel pens.—Boston Herald.

Senator Douglas' Substitute for the Crittenden Proposition.

The following is Senator Douglas' substitute for the Crittenden amendment and resolutions complete.

Sec. 1. Congress shall make no laws in respect to domestic servitude in any territory of the United States, and all the territorial governments shall be formed on the model and in the terms of the organic acts approved September ninth, eighteen hundred and fifty, called the Compromise measures, and the validity of all territorial enactments shall be finally determined by the Supreme Court of the United States, on appeal or writ of error from the territorial courts. But no new territory shall be organized until it shall contain twenty thousand white inhabitants, nor shall any new State be admitted into the Union until it shall contain the requisite population for a Representative in Congress, according to the Federal ratio of representation.

Sec. 2. Congress shall have no power to abolish or interfere with the relations of persons held to service or labor in any State, under the laws thereof, nor in any place under the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress, and situated within the limits of any State or territory under whose laws persons are held to service or labor nor in the district of Columbia, under the laws in force therein, without the consent of Maryland and Virginia, so long as such relations shall exist in either of these States under the laws thereof; nor shall Congress have power to interfere with, or prevent the removal of persons held to service or labor from one State or territory to another.

The African slave trade shall be forever suppressed and it shall be the duty of Congress to make such laws as will effectually prevent the immigration or importation into the United States, under any pretence whatever.

Sec. 4. The second section of the fourth article of the Constitution, shall be construed to include all crimes committed within and against the state or place from which the fugitive had fled, whether the act charged were criminal or not in the place where the fugitive was found.

Sec. 5. The elective franchise and the right to hold office, whether Federal, state, territorial or municipal, shall not be exercised by persons of the African race, in whole or part.

Sec. 6. The United States shall have power to acquire districts of country in Africa or South America, for the colonization at the expense of the Federal Treasury of such free negroes and mulattoes as the several States may desire to have removed from within their limits, and from the district of Columbia, and such other places as may be under the jurisdiction of Congress.

Sec. 7. Whenever any person held to service or labor, as provided in the third clause of the second section of the fourth article of the Constitution, shall escape, and the Marshal or other officer whose duty it may be to arrest such fugitive, shall be prevented from so doing by violence or intimidation, or when after arrest such fugitive shall be rescued by force, Congress shall have power to cause the same to be provided by law for the payment of the full value of such fugitive, to the party to whom such service or labor may be due; and in all cases where the United States shall pay for such fugitive, they shall have the right in their own name to sue the county in which such violence, intimidation or rescue was committed, and to recover the amount paid by them with interest and damages. The said County for its indemnity, may sue and recover from the wrong doers or rescuers the amount paid the United States, together with interest and damages.

Sec. 8. The first and second clause of the first section of the 2d article of the Constitution, shall read as follows: The Executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America; The President and Vice President shall hold their office for the term of six years, and shall be ineligible to the office of President for the ensuing six years after having performed the duties of President, and shall be elected as follows: The Legislature of each State at its first session after any federal census, shall divide said State into as many Congressional Districts as it shall be entitled to Representatives in Congress, which districts shall be as compact in form and nearly equal in population as practicable. In each of said districts one elector of President and Vice President shall be chosen by the people thereof, having the qualification requisite for electors of Representatives in Congress, and in addition, two electors for the state at large, shall be chosen by the members of the Legislature assembled in joint convention for that purpose on the day appointed by Congress.

The New Albany Ledger says a man calling himself William Brown, hailing from the South, is imposing upon the Masonia fraternity, by appealing to their sympathies for aid to reach Sandusky, O., and that at several places he was successful in his swindling operations. The brotherhood everywhere are cautioned to be on their guard against this man, as well as many others, who are prowling over the country at this time endeavoring to the passions and prejudices, which are now vulnerably and easily affected, in a time of excitement people are too apt to give credence to rumors and representation of wicked men, when a little calm reflection would enable them to detect the imposition, and thwart the cunning of the knaves who make it their business to dupe honest people.

The death of Henry Johnson, of Newburyport, says: "He was an uncle of the Hon. Caleb Cushing, but otherwise a respectable and worthy man."
